GEN. MACEO MURDERED. SCOT AT AN AGREED CONFERENCE.

Been in the Plot. Cincinnati, O., Déc. 12.-The Scripps-McRea league correspondent at Jacksonville, Fia., wired the Post to-day as This city was thrown into great exitement by the news this afternoon that the patriots had admitted the correctness of the report that the brave eader Antonio Maceo had been butchered. C. M. De Huaua, a chief of the Florida Cuban Junta, gave out the following to the correspondent: "A letter received by a prominent account of the assassination of General exception of Dr. Zertucha, who was or both houses of Congress on Monday Maceo's physician. The letter came from a reliable source in Havana, but the correspondent's name is withheld for the obvious reason that he would be shot within an hour by the Spanish authorities if they knew who gave away the details of one of the most horrible atrocities ever chronicled in modern warfare. From the letter it appears that the Marquis of Ahumeda, who officiated as Captan General of Cuba during Weyler's absence in the field, sent a letter to General Maceo, inviting the Cuban leader to a conference. Maceo, never for a moment thinking that treachery was intended, especially as the invitation came from such a prominent Spaniard as the Marquis f Ahumeda, immediately returned an answer, saying that he would be glad o meet the Spanish general, and, only ecompanied by his staff, he went to he rendezvous, little dreaming of the awful fate in store for him. On ariving at the trocha, the Spanish solliers there, acting under orders, actually saluted the rebel chieftain as he passed, and after reaching the rendezyous, the Cuban leader was surprised to see, instead of the Marquis of Ahumeda, a large body of Spanish soldiers, who seemed to come from every side. The actions of the Spanish troops were so suspicious that Maceo felt that they ad him cruelly trapped, and his susicions were confirmed when a premptory order came from a splendidlynounted officer to surrender. 'Never.' vas the reply, and hardly had the vords been uttered when volley after olley was poured into the little band nerses, and with cries of 'Cuba libre,' ode gallantly to their death. 'Maceo is reported to have fallen at the first fire with a bullet through his lead, breaking his jaw. Another hit nim in the abdomen. Both were fatal. Young Gomez was the next to fall, and in a few moments a number of bloody corpses, shot almost beyond recognition, were all that remained of he gallant Cubans who trusted to Spanish honor.' Only the member of the staff, escaped, and that was Dr. Zertucha. on the field, and every precaution taken

Weyler Tried to Shirk the Responsibility, Says Palma. New York, Dec. 12.-The Cuban Junta n this city received the following telegram from their Jacksonville agent, . A. Haua, this afternoon: "Received letter from Havana con-firming the death of Maceo and staff ov a combination between Marquis Ahumeda, second in command to General Weyler, and Dr. Zertucha. They Delegate Estrada Palma, after the receipt of the above, dictated a statement for the press. It was as follows: "The news does not surprise me, beause the first reports were so contradictory that they read like a mystery. was inclined to believe that the news was false at first, but that if General Maceo was dead it was through the aseassin's knife. It seems now that he has been murdered. "General Weyler, in addressing the crowd from the balcony of his palace, eemed anxious to shirk the credit for the responsibility of Maceo's death when he said that the victory was clearly due to Ahumeda. Perhaps his conscience begins to feel remorse. This very act of the Spanish general proves he straits of the Spanish army. They must resort to treachery.

"They did not face Maceo. They stabbed him in the back. Let me ask where is the Spanish chivalry of which

ANOTHER STORY. Guerillas Killed Him for the Price Set Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 12,-The Constitution prints a long story of the death It seems that General Maceo had rocha, and taking the sea route with body guard, he was to rejoin his forces east of Mariel. This was accomplished in safety, and, while standing alone, within sight of a line of skirnishers, the general was shot down by men in hiding, who were awaiting their victim. His body, so far as Spanish reports go, at once disappeared. but the truth is that it was hacked up by the assassins, who exhausted every ndignity of which their brutal minds are capable. It is well known for a year past that there was a price se upon Maceo's head, and that Captain General Weyler looked toward assassination, and not military triumph for His first official act upon reaching the island, was o give recogaition to plateadoes, bands of fre ooters whom his predecessor punished s severely as did the Cubans. These men, following in the wake of both armies, would murder and plunder and Spanish lines, whilst the latter would fficially deny all knowledge of them. But a few weeks ago a band of these nen attacked a convent in the province when chased down by the indignant Cubans would find protection within of Puerto Principe, which was filled with young girls, who were most shamefully abused. Some of these men were caught by General Lacret, the nsurgent leader and executed while the greater part of them fled to find pro-tection within the Spanish lines. Although the enormity of their crime was known, and their victims were convent school girls, the criminals were protected from further molestation and are to-day free. The depression into which the Cubans were thrown upon the first announcement of Maceos death now that the fact of his cowardly assassination is confirmed, has changed to that of desperate determination, and will make even more persistent their fight for freedom. Maceo's assassination is pointed out as conclusive evidence that Spain is still a stranger to civilized methods, and that the lesson drawn therefrom by Cubans is that they might as well die with their faces to the foe as be the victims of assassination. The story of Maceo's death, as told from official sources, sustains fully the theory of assassination. General Ma-ceo, instead of crossing the trocha directly with his men, was, through some influence, induced to pass Mariel on boat, and to reach his forces on the east side of the death line. All was in readiness by the conspirator, and the brave leader fell a victim to the trap into which he had walked. How singular, it is, that Spaniards, who usually kill everyone in sight. should have been considerate enough to have allowed Maceo's physician, Maxi-mo Zertucha, to dryender. Instead of putting him in chains and rushing him off to a dungeon, he is treated with distinction, paraded before newspaper correspondents and has that freedom of speech which is a novelty in Cuba. CONGRESS WILL ACT. epresentatives Horror-Stricken at the News of Maceo's Assassination Under

There are facts in Huaua's story which, as the Cubans here believe, fit in with previous reports and make them intelligble. It was regarded as incomprehensible that a rough and tumble fighter like Maceo should be found killed in silk underwear and with all his jewelry on his person. Washington Post, 9th. The absence of the silver Republican Senators from their caucus yesterday brought their former party colleagues face to face with a sination which nearly amounts to a crisis. It is within the range of possibility that the Republicans may not be able to pass a tariff law in the next Congress. An appreciation of this fact caused the greatest amount of uneasiness yesterday, and radical means may be resorted to in-

Senate convenes in extra session.

Anxious to conciliate the errng brethren who had gone out of the party at St. Louis and willing to forgive them because their votes will now be needed, the Republican managers in the Senate, as stated in the Post yesterday, concluded to let by-gones be by-gones, and invited the bolters to commune once more with their old party associates in caucus. There was a hope somewhat dubious, but still sufficient to be grasped at as a last chance, that the olive branch would be accepted. Nothing would have been warmer than the welcome which would have been extended to these silver Republicans The fatted calf would have been figuratively killed for the returning prodigals, and there would have been joy unconfined. The caucus met, but the prodigals returned not. They were in the city, but their steps did not tend in patriots who, although hemmed in the direction of the marble room where on all sides, outnumbered almost one the caucus was held. Some of them nundred to one, struck spurs to their like Senators Dubois and Cannon, were within a stone's throw of the meeting place, looking over their morning mail in their committee rooms. They had held a conference on the night previous ected to exercise its influence in North Carolina, Col. Boyd, the national comnitteeman from that State, is now in Washington, and is busily engaged in laying wires for Pritchard's return, while the North Carolina Republican Congressmen, appreciative of the critcal situation, are sacrificing their own personal interests in the hope of se-curing the same end. BY AN OBSERVER REPORTER. The Great Author-Preacher's Sermwn in Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. Staff Correspondence of the Observer. New York, Dec. 9.-The green-eyel monster, which I am sure has herecefore seen a stranger to the circle of charming, bright women who compose Cranford Book Clubs, will, I trow, enter into their hearts and minds when I tell them that I have not only heard lan Maclaren preach, but have shaken hands with him and had several minutes conversation with him. I specify these two clubs because I happen to have been allowed the use, on their recent meeting in Charlotte, of the Granford's shibboleth, which gave me the pleasure as Consul General Felgel appeared at of an evening with them; also an id-a of their mental affections and tastes, and in the list of prime favorites the great author-preacher's name, if I recall aright, leads all the rest. He preached last Sunday night at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church. A party of us-six in all-left the house at 6:30. When we reached the church at 7 there was a blockade of humanity at every entrance. I managed to get in the interior of the church somehow, and when the doors were opened at 7:30 was carried in on the crest of the wave, and thus secured a good seat. The crowd was immense. The building seats 3,000. There was not even standing room, and hundreds were refused sure a safe, even, though narrow, maadmittance. The preliminary service jority, on the Republican side when the of song was, as Dr. Watson would say, an "inspi- (long i) ration." The two old hymns, "How Firm a Foundation," and Onward, Christian Soldier," were grand. With the crash of harmony from the immense organ; the leadership of a choir composed of 20 or more male voices and the volume of sound from the main floor and gallery, my musical soul was carried into the seventh heaven of delight. "And what came ye out for to see! this great multitude might have been asked. None less than the famous author-Ian Maclaren-preacher Dr. John Watson, the most lionized man in the country. As Dr. Watson entered the pulpit every eye was riveted on him. He wore a black silk gown and white clerical collar, and even from the distance whence I viewed him, strength and naracter were plainly discernible in his face. His subject was: "Visions, the Strength of Life." Following the "seen and unseen," the "visible and invisible" thread, he wove in his wonderful loom of thought, and oratory, a design of matchless beauty. "There is such thing as sight," said he. Such a thing as vision. Without vision man cannot believe, hope, endure, rejoice. Sight gives to man one world where everything is discouraging. Vision reveals was not to be retied. And the most to man the progress of the human race, the things that are unseen and eternal. If man believes in the unseen he must adjust his life to the seen. The unseen must be reached through the seen. A scaffold around a building hides i from sight until the whole shall have been completed, then the beauty of the structure is revealed by the removal of the scaffold around our souls until cirumstances are such that the scaffold removed and the unseen is revealed its perfection and beauty. The picture of the crucifixion was prought before us as by a master of canvas-the word-painting of the surcounding landscape and scenes being exquisite in tone and quality. The reat writer is a still greater preacher. His style is the simplicity of the true orator. He is wondrously magnetic He preaches without notes; with closed Bible, and holds the riveted attention of his hearers, by word and gesture. H has a grace that belongs to him as nat urally as does his Scotch accent, which is sufficiently pronounced to be very charming. It were worth something to hear him say "Jerusalem," and other words to which he specially gives the Scotch accent. He is an orator of rare type. New York is quick to appreciate such, hence the ceaseless ovation which he has had. He is tall, well built, well knit. Has a smooth face, dark hair fine features and a very healthful look His manners are cordial and pleasant the Victim of Official Persecution. New York, Dec. 12.—A man made a futile attempt to kill German Consul General August Feigel, at the consulate, No. 2 Bowling Green at 11 o'clock to-day. The man appeared at the consulate at 10:30, asked for the consul general, and when told that he could the membership of the Salisbury and not see him, went away. Uttering a curse in German, the man levelled the pistol at the head of the official. The majority of the clerks were panic stricken and seemed paralyzed with fear. Mr. Paul Falcke, the vice consul, was the only man who seemed capable of action. He jumped towards the man, grabbed him by the shoulders and in the scrimmage the revolver fell to the floor. The man fought like a madman to regain the pistol, and finally succeeded Then everybody save THE LOSS 292.

The Loss of the Sali a Greater One Than Was at First Supposed-A Searching Steamer Dispatched to the Scene of the Disaster.

Bremen, Dec. 11 .- The loss of life by the foundering of the North German Lloyd steamer Salier, which sank on the Coronas shoals, in the gale that swept over the Atlantic coasts of Europe, early this week, is now positively known to have been much greater than at first supposed. The steamer, in addition to her crew of 78 men and officers, carried 214 steerage passengers. Every soul on board went down and was lost with the ship, making a total of 292 persons to perish through the foundering of the old steamer. The steerage passengers inluded one German, 111 Russians, 35 Galicians and 65 Spaniards. Quite a number of women and children were among the number. All were bound for Argentina, where they intended to settle. The Salier carried no cabin passengers.
